This is a message of love from the artists, churches and activists of Toronto

It is a reflection upon the events of the Toronto G20 and an attempt to provide insight into the stories not often told

It is a reminder of what the people of Toronto stand for and believe in, and what we feel about the events that transpired

It is an expression of hope, that justice will be served, and that those victimized by the police actions can begin to heal

It is a warning to all would-be abusers, corrupt officials and all who only wish to destroy, that their actions will be noted, and that they will not be forgotten

Lastly, it is a prayer for reconciliation, that those who are willing to use force to do what’s right might truly become our protectors, not our enemies

This booklet is dedicated to my great grandfather, Melville Richmond, who fought in the trenches in the Great War to defend a dream I still believe in, and to everyone who has made sacrifices in the fight for justice.

To Alex Hundert, Byron Sonne, and all others still facing persecution for their beliefs, your sacrifices are not in vain: through your ordeal, you have shown us the true face of the Canadian justice system, and given us an opportunity to improve it for everybody. Thank you.

In Solidarity,
Michael Vipperman
